CBHS Featured on USLHS “Light-Hearted”

Katherine and Brian Zimmerman, Rebecca Malamud-Evans, and Theresia and Mike Hewitt.

Representatives from CBHS from the past, present and future were interviewed by Jeremy D’Entremont of the US Lighthouse Society for his “Light-Hearted” podcast about the Cape Blanco Lighthouse and “Save Our Lighthouse”. The interview took place at Point.B Studio on August 31 2023 and is scheduled to be aired on September 24 2023. The podcast will be posted at the USLHS website at <https://uslhs.org>.

Our group was invited to be interviewed following our “Save Our Lighthouse” event on August 12th.

A video of event attendees dancing in front of Lifeboat No. 36498 and a replica of the Cape Blanco Lighthouse was submitted to the USLHS’s national call for videos, and although it did not win a cash prize it was clever enough to gain the attention of Mr. D’Entremont and our “Save Our Lighthouse” cause. The videos of Aurora and the Side of the Tide Morris Dancers can be viewed on the Cape Blanco Heritage Society’s website at capeblancoheritagesociety.com.

CBHS also obtained copies of

“The Lighthouse Handbook: West Coast” for our archive as well as for our Greeting Center Gift Shop. Mr. D’Entremont, historian for the American Lighthouse Foundation, has authored 29 books on lighthouses primarily on the East Coast. He says he is a fan of the area and is eager to update his handbook and visit more lighthouses on the West Coast in the future. We appreciate Jeremy for his support of our Cape Blanco Lighthouse when we need it most as well as for lighthouses everywhere. Thank you! ✨

CBHS HAPPENINGS : David Zapatka to Capture CAPE BLANCO

Photographer David Zapatka will be visiting the Cape Blanco Lighthouse on [redacted] to capture our beautiful historic lighthouse against the magnificent Pacific Northwest night sky. This all, of course, depends much on the weather and wildfire situation, however David is a highly skilled professional and acclimated to all kinds of adverse situations.

For more than 40 years, David has been a television cameraman working primarily at the network level for news and sports programs. He got his photographic start as a 13-year old with his first camera, and with this portfolio, returns to those roots.

His night lighthouse photographic project was adopted in 2018 by the United States Lighthouse Society and is called "USA Stars & Lights." As of the summer 2022, he's visited 19 states and has similarly captured more than 190 lighthouses at night under star-filled skies during new moon phase when nights are darkest. His latest book "USA Stars & Lights: Portraits from the Dark" was published by the USLHS in 2020, and sales proceeds support

Photographer David Zapatka, USLHS Ambassador

"USA Stars & Lights" travels.

"I've a long history of donating my time, going back to my teenage years as a volunteer firefighter. I'm getting close to 200 lighthouses captured at night, and that's only 1/4 of those still functioning in the country. If I can get this project funded—and it's a part of the nonprofit USLHS—then I'll continue traveling and shooting as long as possible and until most have been photographed while working deep into the night."

If there is enough interest amongst our membership, David is willing to give a presentation about his work. This event will be held at the Cape Blanco Greeting Center Gift Shop in the early evening (David likes to photograph approximately 1.5 hours after sunset). We will also feature photography from our Cape Blanco Weather Station Project taken by our lighthouse docents. Please call Rebecca Malamud-Evans at 541-366-2036 if you would like to attend this special CBHS Membership event. ✨
